O man !?!?!? Yes you hear it and see it every New Year. People say it every year. “I’m going to make my resolution and keep it.” I saw the other day the resolutions made most often were to lose weight, exercise more, live healthier and so the list goes on. It has to be a mind set, a way of life for people like you and me to be able to fulfill resolutions. I realize that people just don’t think things through and so they make bad choices and ignore the facts. In turn these choices can shorten our lives or damage our health. I’m sure all of us have made bad decisions in our life at one time or another.

This fast paced world we live in does not make it easy for us to make the right decisions. I’m not making excuses, just stating the facts. Are we just ‘feel good’ Christians going through the motions? We have to constantly strive to draw closer to the Lord. We have to want to be closer to God, to really want Him and have a burden for people who are lost. II Chronicles 7:14 states, “If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.” If we Christians don’t stand up for the Godly principles this great country was founded on, who will? We need to sacrifice it all for the Lord, whatever the cost.

Hebrews 6:1 states, “Therefore let us leave the elementary teachings about Christ and go on to maturity...” This is my prayer this day. That is my 2010 resolution. That the Holy Spirit help me to seek Him at all times, about everything and that I might have a hunger for Him, so I want Him above and beyond anything else. Please make this resolution with me. Let’s hold each other accountable in prayer that this be a 2010 resolution that shall not and will not be broken. Max Lucado says “Growth is the goal of the Christian. Maturity is mandatory...If you are the same Christian you were a few months ago, be careful.”
